

NEWS

Much has happened to report here to you. In April Dan went to San Francisco and completed 2 more days of training for the Elna 9600 Embroidery Machine and Digitizer 3.0 software. He has been back at the shop trying to put into practice what he learned.

All of our various items we reported on last month are now here and ready for sale. These include vacuums, sewing cabinets, sewing machines, scissors, fabric and more. All of these are premium items at discounted prices.

Barbara has been quilting like crazy in her new digs and she is knocking out projects right and left. If you have projects for the Holiday Season get them in now so you are guaranteed they are done in plenty of time. Right now her time out on a job is about 2 weeks but that will increase as the holiday load comes in.

We have made huge strides in our eBay Store under the careful hand of Byron Lemmon. We are shipping all over the world. If you are a scrapbooking enthusiast the eBay Store is where you will find unbeatable bargains. Call us if you want to buy scrapbooking in bulk.

Dan's Corner

I have had the unique opportunity of quilting in April. From a quilt I made from a pattern with no assistance to a small quilt I made in my Embroidery Machine Training, I have been at it. Here is my take on it.

As a quilt maker I make a decent sewing machine mechanic! Making quilts is a process that requires patience, (forget that one), color sense (what man has sense of any kind?), the ability to cut straight (not in this lifetime - I see double!) and finally, some skills sewing (I fix sewing machines but even my test stitches are crooked!).

I can do nothing more than give great praise to you ladies and gentlemen who can take quilting to the high art form it is and I hereby reaffirm my commitment to keeping your sewing machines running like tops, your needs supplied whenever I possibly can for material, notions and equipment, and to supply chocolate for that in-shop pick-me-up.

Serger Class

Barbara's serger class is still on. We have tested materials for use in the class and are preparing to start. Barbara will be contacting those of you on the signup list but is still open to new signups as they come in. She will hold as many classes as are needed to meet the enrollment.

If you are interested please call the store and we will put your name on the signup list.

When Barbara calls she will find a date and time that works for groups of students and set the classes from that information.
